DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 7, 9, 12, 16, 18-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Aito et al. (U.S. Patent No. 5,991,689).

As to claims 1, 7, 9, 12, 16, Aito et al. disclose a navigation apparatus as shown in Fig. 1 comprising position detecting means (2) for detecting a current position of an automotive vehicle, destination setting means (See col. 12, lines 60-64) for setting a destination of the automotive vehicle (1), travel route setting means (4) for setting a travel route (start, destination, route guidance) to the destination set by the destination setting means on the basis of the current position detected by the position detecting means (See Fig.4) (See col. 6, lines 8-29); operation mode setting means for setting whether or not to utilize an electronic toll collection system on the travel route set by the travel route setting means (See Figure 5, figure 8; Figure 12); and a communication means (47) for performing communication with an in-vehicle apparatus provided in the automotive vehicle as part of the electronic toll collection system, the communication means being operative to transmit a signal to the in-vehicle apparatus to change an operation mode of the in-vehicle apparatus to the electronic toll collection system (See columns. 9-10).

As to claims 18-19, Aito et al. disclose the communications means (47) as discussed for performing communication with an in-vehicle and also discloses communications means is operative to produce an active and inactive state setting signal as signal to be transmitted the in-vehicle apparatus , and to allow the in-vehicle apparatus to perform communication with a roadside antenna (See col. 21, lines 66-67- col. 22, lines 1-18) located as part of the electronic toll collection system at a toll station on the travel route (See col. 17, lines 24-63).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed on 2/27/06 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

REMARKS

Applicant's representative argues that the prior art fails to disclose the features of the claim namely:

Travel route setting means for setting a travel route...

... operation mode setting means for setting whether or not to utilize an electronic toll collection system on the travel route ...

Examiner respectfully points to the prior art of Aito et al. (U.S. Patent No. 5,991,689) at col. 6, lines 8-9 as pointed out in the office action a travel route setting means and an operation mode setting means as shown in Fig. 12. The claims are therefore remained rejected under the prior art.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
